1. The amendment filed September 12, 2007 limits the polymer component to the elected species of acrylic rubber having the glass transition temperature and weight average molecular weight ranges originally defined in cancelled claim 6 along with the affirmative presence of a filler. The preamble language of claim 1 along with new claims 44-49 are supported by the specification.

2. Newly amended claims 1-4, 7, 10, 11 and 44-49 are directed to a species that is distinct from that originally elected since the response filed October 19, 2006 on page 8, the second paragraph, lines 9-10 elects "the absence of the filler component." The newly claimed affirmative presence of the filler is directed to a distinct species from the originally elected absence thereof.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented species, this has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, all of the pending claims are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected species (37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03).

If the examination of claims directed to the non-elected species of the presence of a filler is desired, the claims should be presented in a divisional application.

3. The terminal disclaimer filed September 12, 2007 does not overcome the obviousness-type double patenting rejections over application no. 11/319,068; Tomiyama et al. 7,070,670 and Inada et al. Patent No. 5,965,269 until the fee has been submitted.

Art Unit: 1712

4. The 35 U.S.C. 102(b) or 103(a) rejection over Yanagiuchi et al. Patent No. 6,521,337 presented in the non-Final rejection mailed March 12, 2007 on page 7 inadvertently omitted claim 6 therefrom. The error is regretted. The glass transition temperature of from -30°C to 50°C and weight average molecular weight of from 50,000 to 1,000,000 of claim 6 now incorporated into independent claim 1 is inherent in the especially preferred acryl based adhesive of patentees (col. 3, lines 52-54) such as that shown in Example 1 (col. 8, lines 32-36) based on the breaking strength of from about 0.196 MPa to about 4.0 MPa (col. 2, lines 44-46) and breaking elongation of from about 10% to about 150% (col. 2, lines 50-51) encompassed by and overlapping the claimed parameters, respectively.

5. The 35 U.S.C. 102(a, b or e) or 103(a) rejection over Inada et al. 5,965,269; Tomiyama et al. 7,070,670; Shimada et al. 6,090,468; Yamamoto et al. 6,265,782; Tanaka et al. 6,673,441; Teichi et al. 2003/0069331, or Japanese Patent Nos. 9-298369, 9-302313, 2000-248025 or 2002-60716 remains applicable to the amended claims since the references show acrylic rubbers with glass transition temperatures and weight average molecular weights within the claimed limits. The claim language of the capability of the adhesive sheet to be laminated with dicing tape onto a wafer and capable of stealth dicing merely indicates the ultimate intended utility of the adhesive sheet and is not a critical limitation.

6. The 35 U.S.C. 102(b) or 103(a) rejection over Japanese Patent No. 2002-280494 would be withdrawn contingent upon the resolution of the claims now drawn to non-elected species since the polyamic acid film is precluded by the claimed polymer component limited to an acrylic rubber.

The reply filed on September 12, 2007 is not fully responsive to the non-Final rejection because of the amendment of the claims the non-elected species of the presence of the filler (37 CFR 1.111). Since the above-mentioned reply appears to be bona fide, applicant is given ONE (1) MONTH or THIRTY (30) DAYS from the mailing date of this notice, whichever is longer, within which to supply the omission or correction in order to avoid abandonment. EXTENSIONS OF THIS TIME PERIOD MAY BE GRANTED UNDER 37 CFR 1.136(a).
